

Beverly Hills: A champagne toast and breakfast with renovated rooms at Maison 140

Rooms at the renovated Maison 140 in Beverly Hills now reflect a classic Parisian style. (Maison 140)

By Mary Forgione
Los Angeles Times Daily Travel & Deal blogger
May 13, 2011 | 6:00 a.m.

A little touch of Paris in Beverly Hills. That's what Maison 140 is aiming for with newly renovated rooms by designer Kelly Wearstler. Along with the new look at this boutique hotel comes a package that includes a champagne toast, breakfast, free parking and free Wi-Fi starting at $185 per night.

The deal: Maison 140 at 140 Lasky Drive touts its new look (lots of red) as having a belle époque vibe. The freebies that come with the Renew Package are nice; parking alone would normally cost $25 a day. Use the promo code "Preview" when reserving this package.

When: The offer is good through June 30, subject to availability.

Tested: I checked availability for a two-night stay starting May 27 (Memorial Day weekend) on the hotel's website and found a room with one queen-sized bed at the $185 plus tax rate. The standard rate for the same room on the same night without the package was $250 plus tax.

Contact: Maison 140, (800) 670-6182